Knews and Komments

Police Beat

There was a breaking and entering at the Metro Trailer Park in Romulus, and the alertness of two Romulus police officers was responsible for an arrest made in the case.

The intruder entered a home in the trailer park and stole some guns, took them two doors away, and dumped them. He then walked past the two officers and said hello to them. He had nothing in his hands at the time; however, his actions seemed very suspicious to the officers so they decided to investigate the area. They found an abandoned car the intruder had been driving, and called in the tracking dogs. The dogs tracked the man's footsteps to his door.

At this writing, the intruder is awaiting arraignment. □

Bound Over for Trial

On July 6, 1988, Richard Rhoden, Ronald Maracle, and Guadalupe Romo were bound over to Circuit Court by Judge Stone on charges of arson. The three had their attorneys at the examination, and witnesses were brought forth regarding the fire on Lisa Drive in Romulus.

There were no containers found near the premises to determine what the fire was started with; however, there is an investigation in progress to try to determine the flammable solution used.

According to one witness, one of the men kicked in the door while the other watched. After the door was kicked in, two of the men entered the home and, shortly after, the third man entered. They were, according to the witness, in the home approximately five minutes. The same witness said that the fire started approximately five minutes after they left the building.

Mr. Romo's attorney tried to get the breaking and entering charges dropped; however, Judge Stone refused to do so. Their bond was held at the same figure. □

CSX Railroad Ordered To Cease And Desist By DNR

by D. A. Atkins

The conflict between the CSX Railroad Company and some of the residents of Romulus just may have come to a head, causing the Railroad to look for solutions to a serious problem.

At the last Romulus City Council meeting that representatives of CSX attended, their comments to the officials and citizens present implied that the Railroad would do as it pleased; they were only there, out of the kindness of their hearts, to inform the Council of their plans. They also implied that they were the pioneers of this country, and that the government protects them and pays for approximately 87% of any improvements done by the Railroad. Remember, this was only implied, not directly stated.

They really didn't seem to care about residents being held up by their trains for as much as 45 minutes at a time when there was absolutely no reason for it. Nor did they seem concerned about following the proper procedures in one of their latest projects — the clearing of a parcel of land in Romulus that has been designated as a wetland area by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) — since they began work without waiting for the DNR's approval of the permit they filed. Evidently, they believe that only the application for permits, not their issuance, is all that's important. Or maybe they think that their every wish is automatically granted — after all, they are the Railroad.

Needless to say, Mayor McAnally and many of the Council members were thoroughly disgusted and very upset. Councilman Wadsworth told the CSX representatives to go ahead and shove their shenanigans down the throats of Council and the citizens, but that, if they did so, the City would take them to court.

Mayor McAnally placed phone calls to Washington and got in touch with the right people who could help. They, in turn, contacted the DNR, which placed a cease and desist order on the CSX Railroad Company.

In an interview with The Romulus News, Mayor McAnally said, "In 1984 and '85, we heard rumors that somebody was buying a lot of property between Huron River Drive and the railroad track on the southwest part of

THE EDITOR'S OPINION

In My Opinion

by Dave Atkins

It is against the law to steal water. Nevertheless, there is an excessive amount of water theft going on in the City, and it's being done not by residents only, but by businesses as well.

To steal water by bypassing the meter is often easy to detect, but sometimes it is very difficult to do. Sooner or later, though, it will be discovered.

Recently, a firm in town was caught stealing water by putting in pipes to bypass the meter. Now, I am not talking about just enough water to water the lawn or take a shower with. I am talking about thousands of gallons of water — water that is not paid for; water that is badly needed now because of the current drought; water that you and I, as taxpayers, must pay for, even though we did not use it.

Yes, we pay for it in higher rates. The bad part of it is that some of our own neighbors are stealing water, too — and, yes, we have to pay for it, just like we are made to foot the bill for the water that some of the businesses steal.

When you consider the weather we have been experiencing for the last two or three months, it is no wonder that some minds would think of stealing water — just like, in a bad winter, some would steal gas to heat their homes. With the amount of money some have invested in their lawns, stealing water gets mighty tempting. Remember, though: it is still against the law, and you can be arrested for it and go to jail for a very long time. Is it really worth it? Evidently, some seem to think so, since they are taking the chance.

Quite frankly, I don't see how stealing anything is worth the penalty some have to pay for the small benefit they get from the theft. In the majority of cases, thieves get caught; in the majority of cases, thieves go to jail.

If you are in need of water for personal needs, contact a social worker or City Hall to see how you can get assistance. Please do not steal it and take a chance on going to jail. As far as the companies that are stealing water from this city are concerned, if they must steal water to exist, then maybe they shouldn't be in this city after all. If they are so desperate that they would steal water from us for any reason, then maybe they should not be in business, period. □

She's Painless!

by Dave Atkins

A really nice young lady has recently begun practicing dentistry here in town. She has taken over the office of Dr. Hill, the former owner of Hill Dentistry on Goddard, located across from Dave's Barber Shop.

What do I like about her? She says she is PAINLESS! Now, painless, to some, means absolutely no pain; to me, painless means that it does not hurt the Dentist!

Rhonda J. Hennessy, D.D.S., received her degree from the University of Detroit School of Dentistry in 1986, and then completed a General Practice Residency at Veterans Administrative Hospital in 1987. Her previous undergraduate work had been done at Northwestern Michigan College and the University of Detroit.

Dr. Hennessy is also an instructor in Oral Diagnosis at the University of Michigan Dental School, and presently is affiliated with both Heritage Hospital and Detroit Receiving Hospital.

With those kind of credits, maybe she has learned to be painless.

To say the least, she seems well qualified to fix your teeth and/or replace them when necessary, although she does not really believe in pulling teeth unless there is no other alternative. Now, that's my kind of dentist!

Dr. Hennessy is more than welcome to our little town. She presently lives in Taylor with her husband, Patrick McCarty, and her daughter, Adrienne, but is planning on moving to Romulus.

Dr. Hennessy is having an open house on July 24, and you are all invited. She didn't mention what she would be serving to her guests, but I suspect that it won't be cookies, candy or soda pop. Hey, Doc, if you don't serve us those things, how do you expect our teeth to go bad so that you can painlessly treat them and stay in business? □

It's The Law

by Murray A. Duncan, Jr., Attorney

Q. May I get married immediately after obtaining a marriage license?

A. A marriage license is not valid until three days after it is issued.

Q. May a divorced mother remove a minor child from the State of Michigan?

A. Michigan law provides that an order or judgment awarding custody of a child must provide that the domicile of the child should not be removed from the State of Michigan without the approval of the judge who awarded custody, or his successor.

When the court finds it in the best interests of the minor child the court may award custody to a parent who resides outside the State or may allow the parent to relocate to another state.

Q. May I stop paying child support if I am denied visitation?

A. As a general rule, no. A non-custodial parent's obligation to pay child support is not related to that parent's opportunity to exercise visitation with a minor child. Some cases have held that support payments may be suspended or cancelled to punish the wrongful conduct of the custodial parent or to force compliance with court orders regarding visitation. However, most judges will not even consider withholding child support because they feel that to do so would adversely affect the innocent minor children.

If you have a legal question that you would like answered, you may send your question to my office and I will attempt to answer your question in this paper's next issue. Questions should be mailed to: Murray A. Duncan, Jr., 10000 South Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174. □

Teen Health Survey Results

This is the first of two parts of a report, based on survey results, that was submitted by the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee. The information presented in this segment was obtained from a survey of students; the next part, which will appear in the July 27 issue of The Romulus News, will report the results of a parent survey.

Student Survey Report

During March and April of 1988, the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee conducted a voluntary and anonymous survey of all junior and senior high school students in the Romulus Community School District: 750 students in the junior high school and 1,420 students in the senior high school. Students were told their participation was voluntary and their answers were private. They were also told they didn't have to answer every question. Seventy-nine percent of the students completed the survey. The results of the survey will be given for junior and senior high separately, since the results vary widely in certain categories.

When asked about visits to a doctor for medical care, 69% of junior high students said they go to the doctor when needed; 31% do not for a variety of reasons:

- 5% say there is no transportation;
  - 3.5% say they lack the money;
  - 3% say hours weren't convenient.
- In the senior high, 61% go when they need to, but 39% do not:
- 8% say the clinic hours weren't convenient;
  - 7.4% say they lack the money;
  - 6% say they have no transportation.

In the junior high, 44% of the students reported having to miss school to go to the doctor, as did 51% of senior high students.

Substance abuse, involving alcohol, drugs and cigarettes, is a major issue with teens. While 80% of junior high students and 69% of senior high students say they never smoke cigarettes, 15.5% of junior high students smoke at least once a week or more, with 11% smoking several times a day; 19.7% of senior high students smoke several times a day; 27.2% smoke once a week or more.

While 37% of the senior high and 71% of the junior high school students said they never drink beer or wine, 16% say they do drink at least once a month; 9.5% of junior high students say they drink at least once a week, with 2.5% of those indicating they drink several times a day. In the senior high, 35.1% say they drink once a week or more; 32.2% drink at least once a month. Eighty-five percent (85%) of junior high students never drink hard liquor, but 3% do once a week or more. In the senior high, 42.4% of students drink hard liquor once a week or more.

In the junior high, 7.5% of the students ride in a car when the driver has been drinking at least once a week; 12% do so at least once a month;

16.7% of senior high students ride in a car when the driver has been drinking at least once a week; 26% at least once a month. Though 74.8% of senior high students don't drive when drinking, 9.8% do at least weekly; 14.5% at least monthly.

In the area of drugs, Romulus teens fortunately do not regularly use such drugs as cocaine, heroine, acid, LSD. Between 91% and 95% of teens say they have never used such drugs. However, between 1% and 1.4% of junior high students and 3% and 9.1% of senior high students do use uppers, downers, LSD, cocaine, and heroin once a week or more often. Regular marijuana use is much higher. In the senior high, 26.1% of the students use marijuana once a week or more often; 4% of 7th and 8th graders report at least weekly use of marijuana.

As we are all aware, one area where there is a high level of concern for our teenagers is in the area of sexual activity. When asked, "Have you engaged in sexual intercourse?", almost one in three (29%) of the 7th and 8th graders responded "yes." The numbers are significantly higher in the high school: 68.2% of senior high students said they have had sexual intercourse. Yet with both groups, the use of birth control is very low: 58% of junior high students rarely or never use birth control and 50% of the senior high students rarely or never use birth control. Five junior high school girls, or 7%, indicated they have been pregnant; two (1%) have given birth; 3 (2%) had an abortion. In the senior high, 8.5%, or almost 1 in 10, of those indicating they are sexually active had been pregnant: 1.1%, 1 in 100, gave birth; 5.7%, or almost 6 in 100, had an abortion.

Eight percent (8%) of junior high boys said they had gotten a girl pregnant; 5% say they got a girl pregnant who had an abortion; 10% of the boys said they didn't know if they had gotten a girl pregnant who had had an abortion. In the senior high, 7.5% of the boys indicate they had gotten a girl pregnant; 5% say the girl had an abortion and 5.6% don't know if they had gotten a girl pregnant who had had an abortion.

As parents, we are all concerned about and need to know about our children's problems. Yet, while 39% of the junior high students and 40.3% of the senior high students expressed a desire for services to help them in getting along better with their parents, 59.9% of the senior high students and 56% of the junior high students never or rarely talk with their parents about their problems. So who do our children talk to? Almost half (48%) of junior high and 58.5% of senior high students talk over personal problems with their friends daily or at least once a week.

Finally, students were surveyed regarding their emotional health. State-wide surveys have found that mental health problems are the number one concern voiced by teenagers. Over the last 20 years, the suicide rate among 12-18 year olds in Michigan has tripled. The RAHAC study revealed that 11% of junior high students and 16.8% of senior high students have thoughts of ending their lives at least once a week

Substance Abuse Prevention '88

by Jacque Martin-Downs, M.A.

The Romulus News is excited to present its newest column, entitled "Substance Abuse Prevention '88," in conjunction with the Romulus Help Center's summer prevention program.

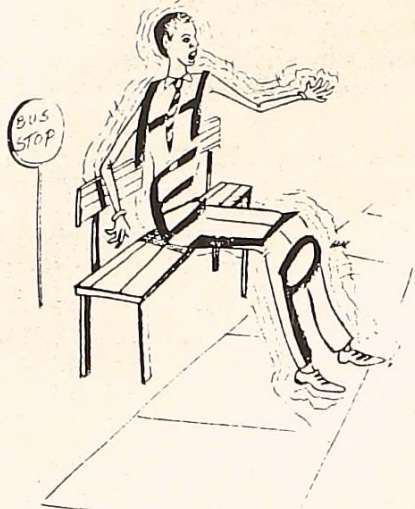

The Romulus Help Center has secured a grant for drug and alcohol prevention activities for the second summer in a row, and has hired me to coordinate these activities. Mayor Beverly McAnally was instrumental in acquiring the grant from the Gannet Foundation.

This column is a part of the prevention program and will address topics on drugs and alcohol as well as answer your questions in these areas. If you have any questions, concerns, or opinions, please address them to:

Substance Abuse
c/o The Romulus News

I may not be able to answer all letters, but I will try to respond to as many as space allows. Your name will be left out unless otherwise requested.

In this first article, I would like to familiarize you with what alcoholism/drug addiction is. The simple answer is that they are diseases of the body, mind, spirit, emotions, and family. The body can become physically addicted to alcohol or drugs, and if the addicted person stops using them, she/he will go through withdrawal. Mentally, alcohol and drugs affect the way the abuser thinks; judgment, problem-solving, and perception are all affected. Spiritually, the abuser is often violating the rules that she/he normally lives by, through different behavior while under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Feelings are either not expressed when using these substances or are expressed in extreme ways through physical or verbal violence or depression. Family members are all affected by the abusers. I will talk about the affects on the family in future columns.

How can you tell if someone is having problems with drugs or alcohol? The first myth that many people believe is that it is how much people drink or use that means they have a problem. How much is not the issue — it is what happens when people use drugs/alcohol. Problem drinkers and users cannot control how much they use or what happens when they do. Problem users continue to use even though it causes them financial difficulties and problems with the law, work, and family relationships. Problem users are compulsive about their usage and it becomes a large part of their life, taking precedence over their other needs and desires.

If you are concerned about someone's use — your own or that of someone else — there probably is a problem. I'll talk more in the next issue about what you can do about it.

Please write with your questions, or contact the Romulus Help Center for more information at 942-7585. □

A MESSAGE FROM THE SENIOR CLASS

by Mary Clark
Happy Birthday!

The next birthday party in the Senior Tower will be held July 14 at 7 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room. Cake and ice cream will be served.

I would like to wish Happy Birthday to the following Towers residents with July birthdays: Anneliese Lee, Sylvester Traskos, Irene Jelics, Helen Dobbins, Cora Turcotte, Cynthia Toth, Rummie Mayle, Narcissa Laine, Marge Drouillard, Ethel Teague, Mary Clark (that's me!), Pearl Ashby, and Christine Johnson.

Romulus Senior Center News

Thanks to Barbara Schultz for the following information from the Senior Center.

Although a few of the regular activities have stopped for the summer, many other programs and trips are going strong.

Our hot lunch program is in full swing for the summer months, with meals served Monday through Friday at 11:30 a.m. All seniors 60 years of age and older are eligible for these meals at a suggested donation of $1. Please call Pat at 942-6852 before 1 p.m. the day before you plan to come.

On July 15, the Senior Van will be headed to Wyandotte for its annual Art Fair, which is nationally recognized. Seniors will enjoy a lunch of their choice at the Fair.

On July 22, two trips will be leaving from the Center. A tour of Toronto for three days and two nights is still available for a few seniors. The cost of $239 is due upon sign-up. Also, a day trip in the Senior Van will be going to the Wyandotte Theater for the Downriver Good Old Days. There will be a vintage movie shown, free pop and popcorn, and prizes for seniors. Please come down to the Center and sign up for these trips, as we take seniors on a first-come, first-serve basis. You may also call 942-6852 for more information on these trips and others.

Legal Aid for Seniors

Legal Aid will be visiting the Romulus Senior Center on August 4 from 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Sign in upon arrival and you will be served in that order.

1988 Downriver Senior Olympics

The Senior Olympics will be hosted by the City of Trenton for men and women 50 years of age and older. The competition will be held August 8-12.

1988 events include an opening ceremony with a parade of cities, and competitions in softball, frisbee, basketball throwing, horseshoes, baking, checkers, bowling, pool, golf, euchre, shuffleboard, and dancing. A banquet and awards presentation also will be held.

Cost to participants is $2 to register and $1 for each event.

Summer Recess

Please note that, during the months of July and August, our classes will be meeting on a limited basis. Ceramics classes will be held through July; however, firing will be on a limited basis. Bingo will carry on as usual in July, and August will be a leisure month for both ceramists and bingo players. Bowling, sewing, arts & crafts, knitting and crocheting, and quilting will not be available again until the week of September 12. Club #1, shopping trips, night out,

Two Paths

by Veronica Marchetti

As I walked
I looked behind me
And what I saw
Had left me wondering.
I saw two paths
Both made by me
But one I made
Subconsciously.
I sat and pondered
On my past
And realized
My faults at last.
People envied my
Spontaneous way.
They wanted something
New each day ...
My way of being
The most outgoing
But yet laid back
And always knowing.
Then soon I learned,
Or so I thought
What unguided
Innocence brought
Oh sweet sixteen
Not always keen
I thought I knew
At seventeen
I don't know why
I thought I'd die
When I heard
My baby cry
I took the path
That no girl wants
My rash decision
Always haunts.
Now as my baby
Crys from hunger
All that I can do
Is wonder,
About two paths
Both made by me
But one I made
Subconsciously.

CSX RAILROAD

town. The agent for them, his name was Tom Dyak, wouldn't tell us for whom it was being purchased, but we were told they were buying 300 acres. I believe it was 150 acres in Romulus and 150 acres in Huron. I'm not really sure of that, but it was 300 acres all told, and that was a real big concern. So, properties were acquired and, subsequently, Mr. Dyak left town. Subsequently, the representatives of the Chelsea System and Total Distribution met with us, the City and City Council, and explained that they were the purchasers of the land and that it was their intention to construct a distribution facility. The holding yard was to be in Huron and the buildings which were assessable were to be in Romulus. At that point, none of us were terribly opposed to that. It would add significantly to the tax base and it didn't seem that anything real negative was going to occur in our city. However, as we began to question them they seemed to have fewer and fewer answers, and the answers became contradictory. We saw some drawings and they didn't indicate what we had been told."

McAnally continued, "We became apprehensive about it. However, Huron, who had been starved for development, was delighted, and the late Ralph Dugan was very, very pleased to have the initial tax base in Huron. But we began to get feelings about what it could amount to by way of disruption of the community. Fortunately, there was a farmland agreement in place. It was Stanley Gott, and he had a farmland agreement with the State, and what that did was to exempt him from taxes, or at least full property taxes, for as long as he farmed it. I think it had a term of 10 to 15 years and it had not come to term. So, that stopped it; they couldn't proceed with their development on the Romulus side. But, meanwhile, they developed on the Huron side: a huge holding pond, many yard facilities, but very little tax base — a whole lot of asphalt, but very little tax base. And really not a lot of jobs. The railroad jobs went to railroad people. I'd venture there were not very many local jobs that were created."

McAnally and the City Council just sat tight, then, to see how things would go, and things started to happen. CSX cleared the land, created the pond, and there was little talk about wetlands at that point. It is suspected that there were some significant wetlands that got wiped out during the development that has already been done, according to McAnally.

Recently, an application to the DNR to mitigate (destroy and relocate/recreate) a wetland appeared in a City Council packet. The CSX Railroad submitted a plan to Council that involved four new tracks and a six-acre pond which was a mitigation of a wetland that was nothing more than a swamp. According to McAnally, the pond, as presented to Council by CSX, is supposed to replace the wetland the company had begun to destroy until the DNR placed the cease and desist order upon them. That order, which was issued in the form of a letter written to

Total Distribution Services from the DNR, read:

RE: DNR File No. 88-14-379W
Gentlemen:

Representatives of the Department of Natural Resources recently conducted an inspection of the parcel for which an application has been submitted. Upon arrival on the site, our representative found that clearing of the site had been 99% completed.

The clearing of stumps and resultant grading is considered to be a dredge and fill activity and the placement of fill in Coan Drain have both been conducted without a permit. These activities therefore constitute a violation of the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act (1979, P.A. 203), and a violation of the Inland Lakes and Streams Act (1972, P.A. 346, as amended). Copies of both Acts have been enclosed for your review.

You are hereby ordered to cease and desist from any further unauthorized activity. Any person violating the provisions of these Acts are subject to criminal prosecution and institution of civil proceedings.

At this point in time, an application for permit (referenced above) is on file and is being processed. The Department will continue the processing and review of this file to a final decision. Please be advised that no additional work within the Department's jurisdiction is to take place. The decision to continue the review of your application does not preclude the possibility for

KOSTEVA'S REPORT

James Kosteva, State Representative, 37th District

Foster Parents Shielded from Nuisance Suits

A new State law provides partial legal immunity to foster parents threatened with harassment by foster children or their natural families. Legal action cannot be brought against foster parents for exercising reasonable parental authority over the child, or when the foster parents' actions deal with providing food, clothing, housing, medical or dental services.

New Law Requires Reporting of Newborn Alcohol/Drug Dependency

Under a bill approved by the Legislature, doctors and other health professionals will be required to inform the State's Department of Public Health about any infants born with a drug or alcohol dependency passed on by the mother. The measure is designed to identify and track children who may need further health services.

Lawmakers Approve Special License Plates

A bill has been approved by the Legislature that would, under certain circumstances, eliminate the need to obtain a duplicate of a missing certificate of title in order to complete a private automotive sale. The new law also allows car dealers in Michigan to obtain special three-year registration plates for vehicles they sell.

House Approves Measure To Equalize Charitable Contribution Deductions

The Michigan tax code has allowed an income tax credit for certain charitable contributions, either up to $100 (up to $200 on a joint return) or 20% of the tax liability, whichever is less. This option has allowed upper-income persons with higher tax liabilities to claim greater credits for the same amounts of contributions as made by lower-income taxpayers. A recently approved House bill will equalize the credits by allowing just the $100-single or $200-joint option.

Bill Would Regulate Out-Of-State Auto Parts Salvagers

The House has approved a bill that would require permanent identifying numbers on salvageable auto parts and impose new licensing regulations on persons from other states who come to Michigan to buy or sell 'distressed' vehicles or parts from wrecked cars. The measure is designed to deter the marketing of stolen car parts and reduce auto theft. Licensed dealers would have to maintain accessible records, which help law enforcement officials track stolen vehicles and prosecute illegal dealers.

New Bills To Protect Consumer Privacy

The House has passed two bills that would protect the privacy of individuals who rent, borrow or buy books, video tapes and other written or recorded materials. Under the bills, retailers would face civil and criminal penalties if they disclosed the identity of their customers and what materials the customers obtained.

House Approves Small-Claims Limit Increase

House lawmakers have voted to increase the amount of money involved in small claims court cases from $1,500 to $2,500. The bill would also allow some fraud cases to be heard in small claims court and require the judge to tell the plaintiff and defendant about their rights and obligations in the proceedings.

Game Law Recodified

The Legislature recently voted to replace the 1929 Game Law with a new measure that gives the Natural Resources Commission (NRC) complete authority to regulate hunting and game management. This authority is currently fragmented between the NRC and the Legislature. The NRC is required to finish the process of replacing the current Game Law provisions with new orders by January 1, 1990.

House Bills Would Improve Medicaid Services

Two recently approved House bills would improve health services for Medicaid recipients. One bill would require the Department of Social Services (DSS) to provide for appropriate home-based alternatives to nursing home care for Medicaid patients. The second bill would require DSS to act within 20 days on Medicaid authorizations of equipment and medical supplies such as wheelchairs and breathing devices. Proponents of the measures say they will eliminate many hardships faced by Medicaid patients and reduce costs.

Where's the Green Grass?

by Tom Shamanski

Where is it? We hear it all the time. "The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence." So, where the heck is this lush pasture of green grass?

Of course, the intent of this little ditty is to expose a basic and uniquely human tendency: namely, that many of us subscribe to the "if only" theory of existence. "If only I were taller (shorter); if only my teeth were brighter (straighter); if only I had teeth! If only, if only, if only . . . then I'd be happy!"

Example: "If only I had a different job, I'd be happy." So, being industrious, we set out and find a different job. At first blush, the new job feels great; no more of the "old job" problems! However, after a few months, the "different job" is evolving into "just another job," where the only differences are the new problems. A year later, we're asking ourselves, "Why did I change? I was better off with my old job."

Example: "If only I could live in a different city (state), I'd be happy." Again, wheels are set in motion to relocate. Now, we're talking a lot of wheels here, as moving is usually complicated and downright expensive. Yet, we persist, and after months of looking, bargaining, and shuffling back and forth, we're finally settled into our new, happy (glad to meetcha, neighbor!) environment. We're happy . . . for awhile. The happiness begins a melt-down when we begin to discover some of the not-so-perfect aspects of our new locale. It's too far to drive to go shopping (anywhere); the higher (lower) humidity is a killer; it's too noisy (quiet) here; and on and on. . . . Soon, the different city (state) becomes "just another place to live," complete with everyday drawbacks — only of a different nature.

Example: "If only I could lose 20 pounds, I'd be happy." The regimen begins! While praying constantly to Our Mother of Perpetual Diets, we cut our caloric intake to 600 per day. After two miserable, deprived months, the weight is shed and we're looking good! But . . . how do we really feel about ourselves in the upstairs chatter of our minds? Do we think thinner, happier thoughts? Are we better people because we no longer crunch the bathroom scale? Not really — but perhaps a new wardrobe?

Cars; relationships; age; things we regret — these are all things with which we play the "if only" game. And, folks, consider the surface only slightly scratched; barely bruised.

I'm not a philosopher, but I wonder about these mind-games a lot. Right now, I'm wondering if, perhaps, there is only one valid "if only" for which to strive. "If only . . . if only I could accept myself as I am, forgive myself for all the crazy and stupid things in my past, and get on with it from here; maybe then I could let myself be happy." □

CITIZENS & PUBLIC OFFICIALS HERE'S YOUR NEWS "N" VIEWS

The purpose of the News 'N' Views column is to provide Romulus citizens with an opportunity to express their opinions. These opinions are not necessarily those of The Romulus News.

by Carol Harriff

This letter is in response to an accusation made against the Yearbook Staff and Mr. Knight during the June 27, 1988 school board meeting. Members of this school board should never call any effort by students as "shabby". The word "shabby" used in regards to student work at our high school is inexcusable. Their job is to support all segments of the student body, including the yearbook staff. It is also their job to make a reasonable effort to get all the facts about topics to be discussed. IT IS VERY CLEAR THAT THIS WAS NOT THEIR FOCUS IN REGARDS TO THE YEARBOOK.

The production of the yearbook is handled by STUDENTS with the advice when needed given by Mr. Knight. The major purpose of a high school yearbook is for it to become a book of memorabilia, the importance of this is enhanced by the signing of autographs. Timing and delivery of this book at the end of the school year is delicate and an important factor to consider in regards to the 1988 yearbook.

This graph will show some of the problems in regards to the yearbook.

Students (approx.)	1500
Staff members (approx.)	120
Sports teams	21
Bands	4
Clubs (approx.)	+ 30
	1675

Multiply this by the # of:
Sporting events (approx.)	× 150
Special events (approx.)	× 100
TOTAL	25,125,000

Now multiply this by 200 pages (approx.) in a yearbook.	× 200
GRAND TOTAL	5,025,000,000
(Details to remember and do perfect)

To call an undertaking of this magnitude "SHABBY" shows a lack of respect for the staff and the students involved.

Granted there are mistakes in the yearbook; this also happens in every major magazine with total paid staff members. The people whose photos were not included or the people with other complaints have a right to be very angry, and have their complaints addressed. However, they don't have a right to effect changes that will affect the whole student body of a school. Nor do they have a right to demand changes (such as returning all yearbooks before they are distributed) without getting the facts COMPLETELY straight first.

FACT: The mistakes made in the yearbook were mostly made by the manufacturer of the yearbook.

FACT: The photographer also made errors in regards to photos.

FACT: Each section of the yearbook is proofread at least once and sometimes twice.

FACT: Printers never set up machines for 1 print of a yearbook for final review.

FACT: These are not paid adults who produce this yearbook, they are students.

When the shipment arrives there is not enough time for the yearbook staff to proofread and return for correction a shipment of over 500 books. Students immediately wish to have their yearbooks. To deny them their yearbook would affect 500 to 700 students in the school. If the students had been notified of the mistakes at the time of delivery, I believe the majority would still want their yearbook then so they could get autographs from their friends. (I personally polled some students. They all said they would take the yearbook as shipped with the mistakes, especially when they knew they would receive a supplement to include in the yearbook. * An effort to correct some of the mistakes.)

A SPIRIT of COOPERATION by some of the members of the high school staff members could have averted some of the problems from developing.

FACT: The yearbook staff sent two (2) separate communications to teachers and support staff.

FACT: Communications asked for input as to when, where and WHAT kind of photos each group wanted.

FACT: Some teachers made appointments for group photos and were successfully included in the yearbook.

The word "SHABBY" fits this situation, the yearbook staff and advisor were treated very shabby by the very people who should support their efforts the most. Maybe some of the board should examine themselves. Maybe their personal preference in regards to this situation clouded their concerns for the whole student body, the yearbook staff and last but not the least MR. Knight.

Some will say I am biased and they are right. My daughter is on the yearbook staff and yes I think MR. Knight is a great advisor. But even more than that MR. Knight is a good role model for my children and the other children on the yearbook staff. □

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

Menopause

This reprint from Biomedical Information Corporation's Compendium of Patient Information was submitted by J. H. Barden, D.O.

Menopause is the total cessation of the menstrual cycle and, consequently, the end of a woman's childbearing years. It is a natural physiological event — not an illness or an affliction. It begins gradually and generally occurs in American women between the ages of forty-eight and fifty-five; however, it can start anytime from the late thirties to the late fifties.

The process is usually signaled by changes in the menstrual cycle: decreased bleeding, skipped periods, an unusually heavy menstrual flow over a shorter than usual period. The transition of menopause may take no more than six months or it may extend over two years. Since ovulation may still occur, even sporadically, contraception should be practiced until menstruation has stopped completely for four to six months, unless your doctor has determined there is no danger of your becoming pregnant.

Hormonal Changes

During the fertile years, either of the two ovaries may produce an egg each month and supply the hormones — especially estrogen but also progesterone — to prepare for development of the fertilized egg. As menopause approaches, these functions gradually taper off until egg production stops altogether and hormone production is insignificant.

The resulting changes in hormonal balance cause 'hot flashes' and 'night sweats,' the characteristic symptoms of menopause experienced by up to eighty-five percent of all women. Although the mechanism of these symptoms is not fully understood, they appear to result from an instability in the body's temperature-regulation system brought on by changing hormone levels. The hallmark is a sudden feeling of heat that radiates through the face and upper part of the body. There may be a red blotching of the skin and excessive perspiration, followed by a chill. The frequency and intensity of these symptoms varies considerably among women, ranging from barely noticeable to almost intolerable. Happily, the body almost always adjusts to the decreased levels of female hormones, and the flushes then gradually lessen and disappear.

Hot flashes usually occur without warning; they may pass quickly or last for as long as a minute. Although many women experience discomfort from these flushes and are embarrassed by them, they are usually not noticeable to anyone else.

Night sweats are hot flashes that occur during sleep. They are sometimes severe enough to disrupt sleep and, consequently, may give rise to the increased irritability, nervousness, insomnia, fatigue, and feelings of depression often associated with menopause. These symptoms may be similar to the feelings some women experience before a menstrual period. They may be linked to a change in hormone levels or to some stressful event in a woman's life; menopause often occurs during a time of change in a woman's lifestyle. Such changes can be a source of stress and difficult to cope with. Talking to a friend, relative, partner, counselor, or doctor is often helpful.

Vaginal dryness is another symptom directly related to the hormonal changes of menopause. This condition, which may lead to itching, infection and discomfort during sexual intercourse, can usually be relieved by using a lubricant. Since many women experience a strong resurgence of sexual desire at menopause, problems in this area should be discussed frankly with your doctor so that they can be resolved promptly.

Hormone Replacement

Hormone replacement therapy to make up for the body's diminished estrogen production relieves the severity and frequency of hot flashes and vaginal irritation and dryness.

Many doctors today recommend both estrogen and progestin (a hormone similar to progesterone) therapy to relieve the major symptoms of menopause. Estrogen replacement therapy is used to treat hot flashes, vaginal irritation and dryness, and osteoporosis. With the use of estrogen and progestin there may be light monthly bleeding at the end of each treatment cycle. Any other bleeding is abnormal and should be reported to your doctor immediately. Estrogen has been linked to cancer of the endometrium; however, this risk is decreased by the addition of progestin to the hormone regimen. In any case, periodic biopsies of the lining of the uterus (endometrium) are necessary if you are receiving hormone therapy. If you have had breast or endometrial cancer, or if you have abnormal vaginal bleeding, you are not a candidate for hormone replacement therapy. Of course, women who have undergone a hysterectomy (surgical removal of the uterus) run no risk of endometrial cancer.

In any event, your doctor is the best judge of whether estrogen replacement is indicated for you. Estrogen is not indicated for insomnia, nervousness, depression, or other psychological problems.

Summing Up

The average American woman lives a third of her life after menopause. Self-fulfillment and attractiveness are by no means limited to the young. Honest examination about the pleasures and comforts of the later years, heart-to-heart talks with emotionally supportive family members or a respected friend, new experiences, work in the community, or a career and common-sense counseling by your doctor are only a few of the avenues open to a woman going through menopause. □

Portside

by Ron Dubsky

The sun was shining and the day was warm with a breeze taking the worst of the heat away. All in all, a perfect day for fishing. I could not, however, be on the water. On June 30, 1988, that perfect day, I attended the funeral of Daniel Lenossi, my co-worker, best friend, and fishing buddy. Danny and I had spent the weekend before on a fishing trip and there had been no indication that anything was wrong.

After the return home, while attending a party, Dan felt a little ill. He went home, decided to take a nap, suffered a massive heart attack, and died in his sleep.

For those of us left to remember Dan, there is a profound sense of loss and a message. The message speaks to the value of life, Dan's life, my life, and your life. It tells us that we must not take this valuable commodity for granted. Guard your health well, for as in the case of my friend, it is possible not to be aware of a serious problem that could take you away from the life that you love and the people that love you.

I'm urging all our members to get regular health checkups and to remember that moderation is often the best course of action in many things.

Please remember Daniel Lenossi and say a prayer for him on your next fishing trip.

Good fishing,
Ron □

Letter to the Editor

To Whom This May Concern:

I would like to share with you an experience I had on June 20. I was on my way home from work and it was a very hot day.

My tire was flat. I had parked in the street and was proceeding to walk to the nearest station when this young man stopped and said, "May I help you?" I said, "Yes, please. I have a flat tire." He said he would change it for me and he did, and followed me to the station and put air in it.

I was so pleased that he was kind enough to help a Senior on the way. Whoever his boss is, he has a wonderful young man that cares about others.

I wanted to share this because sometimes we fail to give the credit to those who deserve it.

This was Ron or Don, and I do appreciate him helping me.

Sincerely,
Ms. Emma Beanum

Editor's Note: "A little birdie" told us the identity of that helpful young man; his name is Ronald Hammac. □

TEEN HEALTH

or more often: that is 1 in 10 7th and 8th graders and almost 2 in 10 high schoolers. Twelve percent (12%) consider suicide at least once a month; in the senior high, 18.6% of the students think of ending their lives at least once a month. Between one third and two thirds of the teens feel depressed, angry and get into fights once a week or more often: 29% of junior high and 59.2% of senior high feel depressed once a week or more often; 57% of junior high students and 72.7% of senior high students feel angry or mad at least once a week; and 67% of junior high and 69% of senior high get into arguments at least weekly. Nine percent (9%) of junior high students and 13.5% of senior high students carry a knife or weapon to school at least weekly and 18% of junior high and 17.1% of senior high get into physical fights at least weekly or more often.

Another worry of our teens involves a family member's use of drugs or alcohol. While 82% of junior high and 76% of senior high students do not worry about such things, 10% of junior high and 16% of senior high students daily or at least once a week worry about a family member's substance abuse problem.

While 87% of junior high and 81% of senior high report never having been abused, 4.5% of our junior high students and 15.1% of senior high students say they are abused weekly, or more often.

Students were asked if they would like to see full service teen health services provided. In the junior high, 77% would like to see a teen health center in or near the schools (43% in; 34% nearby). Thirty-eight percent (38%) said they would use such a center; 36% indicated they weren't sure. Thirteen percent (13%) said they did not want a teen health center in or near the school. In the senior high, 93.9% would like to see a teen health center (45.9% in the school and 48% nearby); 5% did not want such a center. Senior high surveys indicated that 46.3% would use such a center; 31% did not know; and 8.8% would not use it.

Services requested by the students included a number of areas, with the highlights being:

Junior High

- 63% school and sports physicals
- 50% help dealing with death
- 49% help dealing with peer pressure
- 48% counseling for drug/alcohol problems
- 48% counseling for personal problems/stress
- 46% suicide prevention information
- 45% information on AIDS
- 45% weight control and nutrition services
- 43% help to stop smoking
- 43% counseling regarding school problems
- 42% sexuality education
- 41% birth control information
- 39% help getting along better with parents

- 38% sexuality counseling
- 37% pregnancy detection and care
- 35% birth control prescriptions

Senior High

- 62.7% counseling for drug/alcohol problems
- 62.2% suicide prevention information
- 53.5% school and sports physicals
- 52.6% weight control and nutrition services
- 52.7% counseling for personal problems/stress
- 52% dealing with peer pressure
- 51.7% birth control information
- 48% information on AIDS
- 46.2% pregnancy detection and care
- 45.8% sexuality education
- 43.8% sexuality counseling
- 43% help to stop smoking
- 40.3% help getting along better with parents
- 38.2% counseling about school problems
- 37.1% information/help on child abuse

Finally, 372 students signed up to help the Advisory Committee in the development of teen health services in Romulus — 145 junior high students and 227 senior high students.

This summary is not intended to draw specific conclusions, only to present results. If you would like further information or would like to be involved in the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee, contact Kathleen Conway, Project Director, at 941-1600, ext. 23. □

So you see, when Washington is called by the Mayor, letters are written by citizens, and a firm stand on an issue is taken by City Council, things do get accomplished. (By the way, the City also is involved with wetland litigation with the City of Wayne, and it looks as though it may be a long, drawn-out court battle.) I also learned, in the interview with McAnally, that CSX is in the process of having brochures printed to present to the Mayor, City Council, and residents, describing their plans and intentions.

As I sat there talking to the Mayor, a CSX representative called her to inform her that CSX is pursuing the expenditure of $106,000 for motion sensors that will raise or lower gates and turn flashing lights off or on, depending on whether or not there is a train within a certain distance of the crossing; that should relieve the problem of the lengthy backups of traffic. Besides, if what was said by one of the CSX representatives at the City Council meeting is true, then we are paying for approximately 87% of it with our Federal tax dollars, anyway, so why shouldn't we have it? □
